

The Employment Inclusion Continuum

Helping shape clearer, more relevant pathways into industry

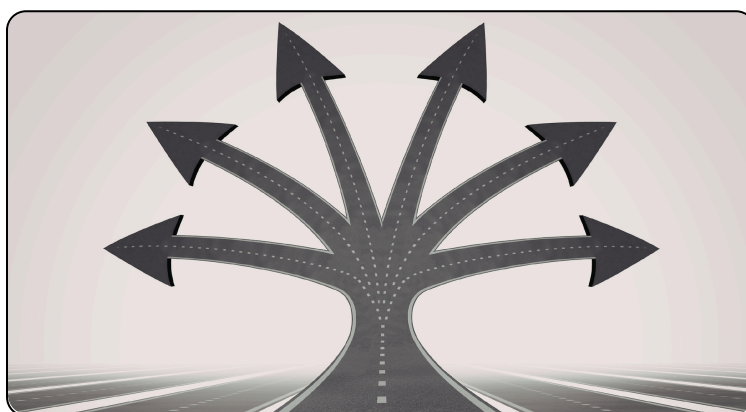

Ecosystem Context

Mentor it Forward's Employment Inclusion Continuum program creates structured pathways into employment across diverse demographics. NDEIC is the neurodiversity-specialised stream, building a connected school-to-work pathway through secondary, tertiary, and workforce stages. Future specialised streams will include veterans, First Nations, women returning to work, and general demographics.

The Industry Lane Model

Participants do not move into one generic workforce pathway. They move into industry lanes, each with its own language, expectations, culture, and networks.

Industry Hubs help make those lanes clearer, more relevant, and easier to navigate.

Two Complementary Roles

Mentor it Forward	Industry Hubs
Mentor it Forward remains the constant across the full pathway. It provides the mentoring, coordination, training, and continuity that support participants as they move through different stages and settings.	An Industry Hub brings the sector-specific insight that strengthens the transition from broad employability development into industry-relevant pathways. They add context, credibility, and access, helping participants understand what readiness looks like in that sector and where opportunity sits.

Strategic Value Exchange

This is a practical and scalable partnership model. Mentor it Forward provides the framework and delivery backbone, while the Industry Hub strengthens the journey with sector knowledge and industry relevance. For Industry Hubs, it is an opportunity to help shape more inclusive pathways into their sector while engaging with emerging talent in a meaningful way.

Current Examples

Two organisations have joined as inaugural Industry Hubs, already leading technology sector pathways and participating in program pilots.

Data Science Industry Hub

ICT Industry Hub

Ready to scale across WA industries

Facing multiple career paths, each with its own Industry Hub.

Sample of major WA sectors ready to activate

Join The Ecosystem

Let's discuss how your organisation can become the Industry Hub representing your sector.

Haim Ozchakir, President & CEO | Haim.Oz@MentorItForward.org | +61 (0) 452 512 151